Mr. Plumb said that the condition of the Indians in the Indian Territory was worse now than it had been for many years; That there never was a time when the tra-der so donated the Indian, when the In-dian was so much in debt by the exactions of the trader, when so much linear was of the trader, when so much liquor was sold; And that the commissioner of Indian affairs had no experience, was advanced in years and was unequal to the position?

Mr. Bate defended the character, ability,

Mr. Bate defended the character, ability, honesty, and afficiency of the Commissioner, and challenged the Senator from Kansas to prove his assertions. This Mr. Plumb promised to do.

The bill was finally passed, and the Senate at 5 p. m. adjourned till Monday.

At 2:30 p. m. while the discussion of the Indian appropriation bill was in progress in the Senate, the nomination of Licutenant General Sheridan to be General of the ant General Sheridan to be General of the Army was received. The Senate at once went into secret session, confirmed it, and a few moments later resumed consideration of the Indian bill in open session. The House.

The feature in the House vesterday was the passage of the Senate bill to revive the rank of General of the Army, and the un-usual speed with which the whole proceed-ing was put through the various stages of legislation, and the bill made a law. legislation, and the bill made a law.
As soon as the House met, Mr. Spinola, of New York, endeavored to secure action on the bill reviving the rank of General of the Army, for the benefit of Lieutenant General Sheridan.

Mr. Kilgore, of Texas, objected.
A few minutes later, Mr. Mills of Texas, asked in the name of Confederate soldiers living or dead, that the House consider the bill.

Mr. Kilgore persisted in his objection.

After a brief delay, Mr. Spinola again tried to call up the bill. Mr. Kilgore withdrew his objection but Mr. Oates of Alana renewed it. lly Mr. Breckenridge asked that the bill be considered saying be was glad to have the opportunity to ask the votes of all in the chamber to give the crowning wreath to the great soldier in his dying hour. After brief speeches lauding Gen. Sheri-dan and urging immediate action, by Mr. Cox of New York, and Mr. Helley of Pennsylvania, the bill was passed by a rive voce vote, Mr. Oates, of Alabama, going on record as opposing it.

Mr. White of New York, sixing to a question of privilege, denied in emphatic terms that he had any interest in the claim of the Venezeulan steam transportation company against the Venezeulan Govern-ment, and denounced the New York paper that had intimated that motives of person-al interest prompted his introduction of a resolution to secure the payment of the should be limited to forty minute Mr. Holman, of Indiana, spoke briefly in favor of cheap lumber.

Mr. McCormick, of Pennsylvania, main-tained that there was no such thing as a lumber trust, and that the existing tariff lumber was entirely reasonable. Mr. Farquhar, of New York, thought it Mr. Farquiar, of New York, thought it was unfair to the lumbermen and the transportation trade to hazard their contracts by the passage of the bill, without the proposed change of date.

Mr. Kutting, of New York, thought the only beacticiaries under the lumber clause would be the Canadian lumbernen, and that the passage of the bill would not cheapen lumber.

The vote was then taken on the Adams' amendment, changing the date for the bil to go into effect to January 26, 1899, and it was rejected, yeas 81, nays 118.

Mr. Buchanan, of New Jersey, offered his amendment to exclude foreign prison-made goods from entry.

Mr. Mills made the point of order that the amendment was not germane to the subject matter of the clause, and was sus-ained by the Chairman, Mr. Springer, Mr. Bucham m appealed from this decis

Mr. Grosvenor, of Ohio, offered an amendment prohibiting the importation of goods, the manufacture or sale of which is controlled by trusts. This was rejected by note of 70 to 105.

Baker, of New York, presented his amendment to exclude Canadian goods from the free list whenever the Government of this country imposes a duty or American goods of a similar nature. Re

When the timber section was reched Mr. Struble, of lows, moved to strike out the paragraph placing timber bewn and sawed, etc., on the tree list.

Mr. E. B. Taylor, of Ohio, discussed the free wool section, and said there were Democrats in the House now, who voted in the 48th Congress to strike wool off the free list. It was only since last December that the Democrats had discovered that they wanted free wool. After a long discussion of the lumber clause by Messra. Guthwaite, Boutelle, Dissiev, Guenther, Reed and others, Mr. Mill requested that the paragraph be passed over. He said that the articles affected by the two lines in the bill, which had been under consideration bill, which had been under consideration all day, had yielded a revenue of but $198.80. His request was refused, and the committee rose. Pending a decision upon a motion by Mr. Mills, to limit to ten minutes further debate upon the paragraph the House took a recess until eight o'clock the evening session to be devoted to the consideration of private pension bills.

Broken Markets, Lower Prices, Dull Trade, Better Crop Prospects, the Features. NEW YORK, June 2.-R. G. Dun & Co.'s

NEW YORK, June 2.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade will say: The past week, broken by a holiday, has brought broken markets, lower prices for stocks and for products dull trade, cheaper money, and better crop prospects have been its features. The exchanges continue to indicate a smaller volume of business than at this time last year, the latest returns showing a decrease of 5 per cent, in which twenty cities share, including seven of the ten having the largest transactions. The improvement in crop prospects is decided. While the loss in winter wheat will still be large, a marked increase in acreage of spring wheat is reported, with favoring weather of late, and improvement in many quarters where the winter's injury was not greatest. The effect upon the markets has been important. Wheat has fallen 4½ cents, corn 3½ cents, and oats a fraction; hogs 25 cents and lard 30 cents per 4000 pounds. Cotton remains steady, and speculation has lifted coffee a quarter. But butter is in large supply and has fallen 6 cent. Eggs are lower and an enormous glut of vegetables has demoralized the market almost beyond precedent. Ten is still dull, with no change at auction, and the grocery trade change at auction, and the grocery trade as a whole lacks the buoyancy usual at this season. A slight improvement in grain freights to 1½ dollars for wheat to Liverfreights to 1½ dollars for wheat to Liverpool, indicates a better export demandsince the decline in price. There is no improvement in the iron market; indeed, the acceptance of lower prices by some southern makers in need of money has strengthened the impression that prices will go still lower. Consumers gain the advantage in recent sales of lake ore, and the market for bar iron has a weaker tone.

The control manufacture, on the other the market for bar iron has a weaker tone. The cotton manufacture, on the other hand, improves in outlook, and higher prices are made for print cloths and some staple goods, with an encouraging movement. No recovery is seen in woolens, but the large auction sales of flannels resulted very satisfactorily, though prices averaged 5½ per cent. lower than last year's at the first, and 7½ per cent. lower at the second sale. The general range of prices for all commodities is 2 per cent. lower than it was May 1st with the apparent tendency toward still lower figures. Reports from the interior show better business at Omaha, St. Paul and Cleveland, but comparative dullness or quiet at nearly all points. Money is rather close and rates stiff at Detroit, but the markets at other points seem fairly or fully recolled though the terminate tendency to find the prints of the kets at other points seem fairly or fully supplied, though the treasury has taken in during the week $2,200,000 more than it has paid out. Bond purchases have almost ceased, the scanty offerings being beyond the Secretary's limits. The slight improvement in exports, 2½ per cent for the month from New York with a decrease of one per cent. in imports, indicate that the excess of imports over exports in May, over $15,000,000 last year, may prove not more than $13,500,000. Yet the possibility of gold exports in considerable amount has a depressing influence, and the stock market has shown but little strength, though returns of railroad earnings continue generally satisfactory. During the past week the average price of stocks has declined about 70 cents per share. In the absence of any general movement to realize by for-

Whether he will run, I don't know. How he would run, if he size white consent to stand. I do know. he gives his consent to stand, I do know. To him there is no objection, because if he is elected he will have an adviser who is as well equipped as any ofher man in the country to be President—his brother John.

House as he marched to the sea."

"Who do you think the Democratic nominee will be?"

"Oh, Mr. Cleveland, clearly. He will be both candidate and platform. I can but admire the grasp with which he holds the Democracy by the hand. In 1884 I disbelieved in both his cayacity and equipment for the Presidency. I am now satisfied that I was right in the last and wrong in the first. Who doubts Mr. Cleveland's fitthe first. Who doubts Mr. Cleveland's fit-ness to be President? His capacity to rule cannot be doubted. I look upon this elec-tion as the most important one since 1864, which settled whether the war should be continued and the country saved."

The Post says the situation had become so serious that the army surgeons, who have been in charge of the case, determined to call in civilian aid. It is a matter of opinion if their action in calling in outside assistance was not due to despair. They had reached the end of their rope, and their patient was dying. Under the circumstances, they perhaps were not adverse to dividing the responsibility.

At this point a little inside history may not be out of place. Several days after General Sheridan's first attack, a physician was called in whose name has never appeared on any bulletin. He found that digitalis had been given in large quantities and to a dangerous extent. He ordered its suspension and substituted strychnia, a powerful nervine. He, too, suggested the use of oxygen. The result of this course was seen in the long rally which followed the attack of Sunday morning, and which lasted until Wednesday night. Having given directions as to the treatment, he retired, and immediately other complications arose. The cedema of the lees grew so intense that the patient. other complications arose. The strain on the legs being thus reduced, aided perhaps by bandages, the ordema of the legs disappeared, but the matter which produced the edema was not entirely eliminated from the system through the kidneys. Like a bettle on its side, the fluid, as suggested by the Post, penetrated the abdomen. Then, instead of penetrating the heart sac and producing death, it found its way into the lungs, producing congestion and the cough. The congestion and the cough increased and the relapse of yesterday followed.

He remained in consultation with the physicians and then drove away with Dr. O'Reilly. They went to the Pennsylvania railroad station and Dr. Pepper returned to Philadelphia. It was impossible to obtain an interview with him before his departure, but it is understood that he will not return to this city for several days at least, and not then unless new and other dangerous symptoms are developed in the case. None of the other physicians would give any information about the case this morning in addition to the meagre statement contained in the bulletin.

No material change in the patient occurred during the day.

General Sheridan's nomination was received by the Senate and the body immed atively went into executive session and confirmed the nomination. Senators Hawley and Manderson drove the commission which the President had just signed making him general of the army. They were at once admitted and were joined by Mrs. Sheridan. As she entered the room Senator Hawley handed her the commission with the remark: "Madame, I hand you this with great pleasure."

Mrs. Sheridan was much moved and exclaimed: "I know he will now get well."

She thanked the gentleman with much earnestness, and retiring, said that she would at once hend the commission to the general. She had previously been told that the bill making him a general had passed the Senate.
